VALRYRIE WON BY

A SMALL MARGIN,

Crossing the Finish Line 47 Seconds Ahead of Crippled Defender.

The Briton Fouled the American Boat at the Starting Line.

But With Broken Topamst She Made It a Neck and Neck Race.

HIGHLANDS OF NAVESINK, Sept. 10.—

Valkyrie won the second of the races for the tooting of whistles, and the boats were america's cup. The British boat got away racing towards Sandy Hook with all sails

At the first stakeboat of the triangular course Valkyrie was three minutes and fifty-two seconds to the good. The second stakeboat was turned by her three minutes and thirty-five seconds ahead of Defender, and she crossed the winning line two minutes and eighteen seconds before the American Deducting the difference to the second stake winning line two minutes and she crossed the winning line two minutes and eighteen seconds before the American Deducting the difference to the second stake winning line two minutes and she crossed the winning line two minutes and the second state of the second stake winning line two minutes and the second stake winning line two minutes and the second stake winning line two minutes and the second stake with all sails which Defender is given its time allowance, is as follows: Valkyrie, 2h, 55m, 9s.; Defend, er, 2h, 55m, 56s. was: Valkyrie, 2:55:22; Defender, 2:87:40. The official finishing time of the yachts was: Valkyrie, 2:55:22; Defender, 2:57:40.

The victory of the British boat has, however, been protested. At the start, before crossing the line, she ran into and damaged Defender's topsail and a protest flag was immediately hoisted by the American yacht, although the boats raced. The protest was accepted, and if on investigation it is found that Valkyrie was to blame and fouled her rival she will not reap the benefit of her victory.

At 2:30 p. m. both yachts appeared in view and there seemed to be no doubt that Valkyrie was leading by a short mile. She was carrying mainsail, club topsail, staysail, jib and No. 1 jib topsail, and, barring accidents, she was looked upon as being certain to cross the line a winner before 3 o'clock. cursion fleet was then heading up and regard to the protest lodged by Defender against Valkyrie at the start, all that can be said at present is that the Regatta Committee will hear the case on its merits and decide upon it later on. It is thought prob-able that the decision of the committee will be that the two yachts sall an extra race.

British Yacht Blanketed Defender Twice in the Jockeying.

At 10:50 a. m. the preparatory signal was fired, and the yachts begun the usual jockeying for positions. The British yacht blanketed Defender; but Defender worked out from under her les only to be again blanketed, and the yachts crossed the line in the following official times:

Valkyrie, 11:20:13; Defender, 11:31:15.

At 11:22:30, after a short tack to starboard, both boats came about and stood directly toward this point on the port tack. Both boats were headed directly for this point Defender to the leeward and seeming to point a trifle higher than the Valkyrie.

Shortly after the start Defender hoisted a protest flag, and the protest was allowed, it being believed here that Valkyrie fouled Defender during the lufting matches. It seemed from here as if one of Defender's shrouds was injured, but nething definite could be made out and Defender's topmast held on well. The beautiful white sik club topsail was in great shape, and there was not the slightest sign of a break.

Sunday morning about 11 o'clock Mrs.

Marks had nothing to do, and as it was so frightfully hot she determined to take a street car ride. As Forest Park was the coolest place she could think of, she thought she would go out

But fate willed that she take the Laclede line. She got on at Seventeenth street and the car being well crowded in the rear, as usual, she moved up forward. This was another step toward misfortune. The car sped on its way with Mrs. Marks unmindful of what was to come until the Missouri line pavillon in the park was reached. Here it stopped and the motorman drew back the forward gates in order that the passengers might get off at both ends. This is done on all the firms at the terminals.

Mrs. Marks being in front, started to set off the forward end. Picking up her skirts so that they would not drag she started down the steps on the side nearest to the power crank. Just as she did so her foot slipped and she fell forward. The opening in the back of her skirt reached out like a handle and became fastened to the crank. As the woman continued falling the crank revolved and the electric current was turned on.

Then the spiteful crank let go its hold and she struck the ground, one of her legs reaching out just in front of the front wheel on that side.

The current of electricity had already its control of the control of the Evidently the suicide expired in the position his body was in when the shot was fired, for there were no evidences of a tossing about on the bed. The pillows were evidently used to muffie the sound of the revolver or Detective Allender would have been awakened by the report. The hall guard of the hotel would hardly have heard the shot under any circumstances, because a bath-room intervenes between the bed occupied by Palmer and the hall.

None of these papers, so far as known, bore on the intended self-destruction, another-probable evidence that he had not long contemplated the act.

Where he got the pistol is a mystery to all his friends and those who had been thrown with him doins the past few days. Had he made any display of it it would have been taken away from him by Detective Allender. He must have had it concealed in his room at the hotel.

Mr. A. M. Palmer told a Post-Dispatch reporter that he had never known his brother to carry a revolver. His relations, he said, were entirely pleasant at home, and he

Mr. A. M. Palmer toid a Post-Dispatch reporter that he had never known his brother to carry a revolver. His relations, he haid, were entirely pleasant at home, and he could think of no reason for the suicide except the nervous disorganization produced by his heavy dissipation of late.

Detective Sam Allender was sent out to search for Palmer at the request of Manager Pat Short of the Olympic. After visiting numerous public resorts Allender made a tour of the hotels. He found a man answering Palmer's description at 8 p. m., registered at the St. Nicholas as W. Robinson. He went to the Olympic Theater and returned with Manager Short in order to make the identification positive.

"We took him to his brother, A. M. Palmer, at the Olympic," said Detective Allender to a Post-Dispatch reporter. "Mr. Palmersaw his condition and knew he had been on a protracted spree. Mr. A. M. Palmer requested me to take care of him until he straightened out, and I took him to the Southern Hotel and had him take a Turkish bath. Then we went to Fausi's, where we had a light lunch. It was then about 10 clock, and the Olympic was about to cloce. I took him back to Manager Short's office, Mr. A. M. Palmer saw that his brother was in pretty good shape, the Turkish bath and lunch having done him good. He and Mr. Short asked me to remain with his brother during the night and see that he got nothing more to drink.

"I went with the deceased to the Southern and we sat in front of the hotel until about 1 o'clock this morning, then we went upstairs. Mr. Short had secured two adjoining rooms opening into each other. The deceased was to occupy the one opening into mine, so that he could not get out except by passing through my room. We sat there talking until about 3 s. m. Palmer requested to the real king until about 3 s. m. "The deceased finally went into the other room and closed the door. He seemed to be feeling all right. At 6:20 o'clock this morning I tried to arouse him. There was no answer to my knock at the door. I waited until 7 o'clock and then began kicking the door. Then I rang for the beliboy, thinking a pass key would open the door. But Palmer had bolted the door. I waited awhile, then went down stairs to the clerk. The carpenter had to be called to open the door, which he did by taking it off the hinges. We found Palmer lying on the bed, clad only in his undershirt. He was lying full length, he head between the pillows, a pool of blood beneath his head. I had not heard the shot, neither had the man in the room adjoining on the other side. I notified Mr. Short and the brother of the deceased.

Henry Oxmann and Henry Franke, as best men.

The brides were gowned exactly alike in cream satin dresses, with trains, elbow sleeves, veil and wreath and orange blossom trimmings, carrying white roses.

After the ceremony the bridal party repaired to the residence of Herman Oxmann, where a wedding breakfast was served. The entire afternoon will be spent in merry-making.

Herman Oxmann and his bride will occupy the dwelling on Union avenue while Mr. and Mrs. Franke will go to housekeeping at 4804 Fountain avenue.

All the principals in this somewhat extraordinary wedding have known each other from childhood and went to school together. There was no love until two years ago, when Hermann Oxmann took Miss Franke to a dance. She was the belle of the evening and paid but little attention to Herman. Then jealousy made fitself manifest and for the first time Herman knew he loved. Soon after he proposed and was accepted.

During the period of engagement Miss Franke's brother and Herman's sister were often thrown into one another's society. With them also friendship ripened into love and the result was a double wedding.

There was a lively old time at the Dispensary at 8 o'clock this morning. Dennis McShane, of 415 Vulcan, and Pat Evans, of 686 South Broadway, both moulders, had had a rough and tumble fight at 119 Dock street. When both had had enough they shook hands, swore friendship more or less eternal, and started together for the Dispensary for repairs.

Dr. Newcomb sewed up a scalp wound in McShane's head and dressed a contused wound on the right eye, and put a few stitches in a bad cut on the nose of Evans.
The men looked at themselves in the Dispensary looking glass and the sight inflamed their angry passions anew. Without preliminaries they went at it tooth and toe-nail. BAST ST. LOUIS Hattie Wilcox, Aged 16, and Thomas Manniss, Aged 24, Missing.

Mrs. Cora Wilcox, a widow living in the Denverside addition to East St. Louis, has reported to the police that her daughter. Hattle, aged 16 years, is missing. The last sees of the girl in East St. Louis was on Aug. 13. when she left her position as housemaid at Mrs. Bracy's bearding-house, lis North Main street, because Mrs. Bracy did not need her help for three or four days. Mrs. Bracy promised to send for the girl at the end of that time, and the latter stated she would return to her mother's home until wanted. Mrs. Bracy changed her mind in the meantime and didn't send for her.

As her daughter had not been home for more than a month Mrs. Wilcox called at Mrs. Bracy's Tuesday morning, supposing she would find the girl three. Failing to do so she was wrought up to a high state of excitement. During Mrs. Wilcox's visit it occurred to Mrs. Bracy that one of her delinquent boarders, Thomas Manniss, a teamster, disappeared the same day that Hattle left. The girl when she left took one of Manniss shirts away with her, claiming that Manniss had requested her to carry it to a laundry. Manniss, who is only 34 years old, was remembered as having been somewhat devoted in his attentions to the girl at the boarding house, and when Mrs. Bracy informed Mrs. Wilcox of all this, the mother at once construed the matter into an elopement, but is puzzled to know where the couple went to get married.

They have now been gone nearly a month, long enough, the mother thinks, to have returned if they are coming back.

If it is a case of marriage the son-in-law will not be welcomed by the bride's mother with open arms, as Mrs. Wilcox says her day they have now been gone nearly a month, long enough, the mother thinks, to have returned if they are coming back.

Mrs. Bracy's Tuesday informed Mrs. Wilcox of all this, the mother at once construed the matter into an elopement, but is puzzled to know where the couple went to get married.

Manniss came to East St. Louis from Carbondale about a year ago.

Mrs. Wilcox secured a tintype of the young man from Mrs. Bracy and turned it over to Sergeant Mooney. Mrs. Wilcox wants her board money. Both agree that if each secures what they want Manniss can go to grass, as they don't like him a little bit.

R. S. Blades and John Hodder, laundry employes, were arrested by Sergt. Mooney this morning on warrants for disturbing the peace. Blades and Hodder are charged with engaging in a row on Missouri avenue last Thursday, in which two plate glass windows were smashed at Graney's cafe.

City Council Passes an Ordinance of an Unbeard of Character.

The City Council passed an ordinance last night prohibiting street meetings and parades. The ordinance was passed with parades. The ordinance was passed with the direct intention of breaking up the open-air meetings of the Salvation Army, but its ultimate effect will be to prevent any kind of gatherings or parades, processions, or even funerals, except upon certain streets, should it be enforced. There is scarcely a possibility, however, that it can or will be enforced, as it will certainly be opposed by the masses.

The principal clause provides that "no parades, processions or public meetings of any kind or description, either social, political, religious or otherwise, shall be allowed upon the public square or Main street."

The provisions are so sweeping that if

The provisions are so sweeping that if enforced they will prevent trades processions, bleycle parades, funeral processions, militia maneuvers, political meetings, and in fact any kind of open-air gathering or demonstrations on the public square or anywhere on Main, A. or First streets. As the three streets named are the only ones in the city available for parades or processions, the ordinance, if enforced, would be virtually prohibitive of anything of the kind. The penalty provided for violations of the ordinance is a fine of not less than $35 nor more than $100.

The City Council has appointed the following polling places and judges for the special election for Sheriff Oct. Is:

DELAYED FENDER EQUIPMENTS.

The first day of this month was the date fixed by the fender law for the equipping of all street cars with fenders, although no penalties for failure to do so can be inflicted until Oct. 1.

The month is now nearly half gone, yet doubtful if, with the apparent disposisome of the companies, they can be supplied with fenders by the last day of

The companies cannot complain that they were not given ample time. All the time they asked, and in the opinion of many, more than they should have been allowed was conceded by the Municipal Assembly. They have had months for preparation and the fact that a few of the lines are completely equipped shows by fear of punishment. If the law had been complied with by the first date fixed several poor creatures who have been mangled or killed since Sept. 1 might have been saved as the little girl whom a fender picked up the other day

When the final date expires no excus can be accepted from any company. Public opinion demands the vigorous en forcement of the law with the infliction of the heaviest penalty for dereliction.

EDUCATION THE BEST PROTECTION.

A few days ago the Post-Dispatch told of how two young girls were spirited away by designing men on a flatboat. It was supposed they were taken down the river to a point where a number of men were engaged in povernment work undr a contractor, the object being to compel them to lead an immoral life. A correspondent wrote a very indignant protest at the apparent inactivity of the police and public under such circumstances. It now turns out that the girls have been arrested and brought back, and the police claim that they are incor-

The New York police have decided that women may ride astride in public, which women may ride astrice in public, which is equivalent, we suppose, to allowing them to wear divided skirts or even bloomers on horseback. But the Police Board has also ruled that the women ng as matrons at the station-"must wear a neat dark or black dress, with skirts two inches from the ground." As the Police Board is composed of men, this may be looked upon as an indication of masculine tyranny. Or it may be taken as a forecast of what would become universal if the dreams of the Socialists ever become real.

was given freedom to ride and dress as she liked?

Whatever may be said of the soul of min under Socialism, it is evident that his dress would be as much a subject of legislation as the gowns of the New York police instrons are now a subject of police regulation. And whether all women should wear skirts or bloomers—whether men should wear "knicks" or "pants," and how soon little Tommy should doff his petticoats would be decided not on their merits, but on the preponderance of the male or female influence upon legislation.

The New York police matrons furnish an object lesson. If the Puritan element got the upper hand under Socialism, all women would be compelled to don "a neat dark or black dress, with skirts two inches from the ground." If the progressive element, obtained power, even Aunt Jemima and all our country cousins must put on bloomers.

A CRITICAL SITUATION.

It is evident that a crisis is approach ing in the Armenian question.

The news of fresh outrages by Turkish ers and Kurds and of an apparent plan of the Turkish authorities to let the Kurds work their will on the helpless remnants of the Armenians is most significant in view of the stubborn atti-tude of the Porte towards the demands of the European powers.

Either the Sultan is unable or is afraid to check his fanatical Mahommedan or he has determined to delay compliance with the demands of Great Britain until the Turkish or Kurdish soldiers can sbolish the Armenian question by wiping out the Christian Armenians.

The Porte is playing with dynamite, but fanaticism and fear of intrigue and revolution have led it to do foolish things in the past. There is reason to believe that Great Britain, with or without the actual support of Russia and Austria, will pro-ceed to extremes. Popular sentiment demands it. But what is done must be quickly done or there will be no reason to interfere in behalf of the wretched Ar- archists. The cause of Socialism ca and the brutalities preceding them.

THE HEALTH-GIVING BICYCLE.

The attempt at this late day to prove that bleycle riding is detrimental to health, after the public had become acned to seeing strong indorsements of the exercise from leading medical authorities, will be likely to fall very flat now that the Mississippi Valley Medical ciation has approved this style of locomotion. At its recent meeting the asso-clation discussed the subject fully, from the medical standpoint. Among the speakers, Dr. I. N. Love of St. Louis expressed himself as thoroughly satisfied that the bicycle, when properly used, "was the greatest thing known for exercise.

The association, including a number of women doctors who were present at the meeting, heartily agreed with Dr. Love. They were probably not much addicted to bicycle riding themselves, as they preferred the good old style of dress, even for this exercise. But they had both male and female bicycle riders among their patients, and knew that whatever allments they had to treat these allments were not the outcome of bicycle riding.
The attack on this exercise is of the same order as the virulent attack upon the use of the sewing machine. All kinds of evils were predicted when this aid to however, that Chicago raises a larger women first came into use. Yet we neve hear of any bad effects from the mod erate use of the sewing machine now days. Nor will the attack upon the bicycle survive the ordeal of experience. The woman who must use the sewing achine to earn a living is being emand pated from the drudgery of pedaling by the invention of electric and other mo that all could have been equipped.

SCIENTIFIC CRIME.

In a recent article on "Science as Crime," prompted by the Holmes case, the Post-Dispatch discussed the opportunity which the advance of science offers for the safe commission of murder and suggested the possibility of the future murdefer inoculating his victims with disease germs instead of using club, halfe misted or using club.

knife, pistol or easily detected poisons.

Now comes a scientist with a public warning against this possible method of crime. In a paper read before the Medico-Legal Congress, Dr. Paul Gibler showed the possibilities of scientific murder and declared that murder by the inoculation of bacilli was the easiest and safest method of crime. He said that safest method of crime. He said that a murderer could choose among a score of deadly diseases and by pricking his intended victims with a pin containing a few bacilli on the point could put them out of the way and leave no trace of crime. Some cholers bacilli cultures thrown in a reservoir would kill thousands who used the water therefrom. and the police claim that they are incorrigible and went astray of their own free will.

While the perpetrators of outrages upon womanhood and especially upon young girls should be punished to the utmost limit of the law, it cannot be too strongly impressed upon parents that the only effectual way of protecting their daughters is to so educate them, by pre-the only effectual way of protecting their daughters is to so educate them, by precept and example, as to bring clearly before them the fact that virtue is a good thing and vice is sure of being punsished by its own dire consequences.

Sympathy and punishment are usually forthcoming when the evil is done, but education at the right time would have made both unnecessary.

The Chicage Record suggests that now, while the Grand Army hosts are in Louisville it is a good time for that city to take a census. Probably no city in the world knows so much of census-taking methods as Chicago, and the Kentuckians may possibly accept this valuable advice.

The Boston Board of Health reports ninety recoveries in 113 cases of diphtheria in which antitoxine was used, fitteen of the cases being hopeless when admitted to the hospital. These are somewhat convincing figures, if the board knows what it is talking about.

The quiet separation of Frances Hodgon Burnett and her husband, Dr. Burnett, has caused a good deal of surprise. Is matrimony really a failure among literary and scientific people? Must we at last go to commonplace people for our little Lord Fauntleroys?

MUTTERINGS OF TROUBLE

Evangelism in the M. B. Church South Threatens to Cause Trouble.

The mutterings of trouble over evange-listic work in St. Louis District conference of the M. E. Church South were increased by an occurrence at the Fourth Quarterly Conference of First M. E. Church South Monday evening. An evangelistic report presented by Rev. Beverly Carradine ac-presented by Rev. Beverly Carradine accentuated the existing feeling. Rev. Mr. Carradine is a local preacher of First Church. The report told of revivals in many States.

Rev. Dr. Messick, the presiding elder, ruled that the Quarterly Conference was not competent to hear the report as, by the discipline, Mr. Carradine's labors should be restricted to the precincts of First Church. The pastor, Rev. Dr. Jarrell, then asked as a question of law: "Does the report of evengelistic labors by a local preacher furnish sufficient ground for the passage of his character by the Quarterly Conference?"

Dr. Messick answered: "By no means."

Dr. Jarrell then gave notice of appeal to lance driver at once to carry the remains to the Dispensary."

The word "remains" caused consternation. An ambulance was sent post haste, the sad news was telephoned to the newspapers, and with sorrow the return of the ambulance with the "remains" was awaited, while everything was got in readiness in the operating room lest parchance a flecting breath remained.

Before the ambulance returned Dr. Jordan, arrived in good ange with not a scratch on him. He sent the message himself, but it had been misunderstood. His fiery, untamed stead reared, fell down, and broke a shaft of the buggy. The "remains" had reference to the broken buggy, which Dr. Jordan wanted moved to the Dispensary.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE. Unmannerly Young Men.

the Editor of the Post-Dispatch. Without intending or desiring in this communication to enter into any discussion of the "new woman" question, I, as a married woman, desire to say I am simply and plainly a believer in the womanhood made sacred to me by my mother, and in whose teachings I yet believe. But this in no wise bars me from the innocent enjoyment of new pleasures which new developments offer, and in common with several lady friends have formed a little group, who with our husbands have learned to enjoy the healthful recreation afforded by the bicycle.

We find it convenient to use what we trust and certainly believe are perfectly modest costumes, and do so. We were expeting at first to have to pass the gamut modest costumes, and do so. We were expeting at first to have to pass the gamut of considerable observation, and perhaps at rare intervals unseemly jibos from ill bred people, but that we should be the most furiously hoeted at from the steps of the Young Men's Christian Association Building, on the corner of Twenty-minth and Pine, we never could have believed. Yet upon Thursday evening last, in a ride reaching from Garrison avenue to and through Forest Park and return, not a disrespectful or obtrusive word from any source or locality greated us saving there. It would seem this is hardly in keeping with disciples of "Him who thinketh no evil."

A WOMAN WHO RIDES.

St. Louis, Sept. 9.

A 200-Cent Dollar. A 200-Cent Dollar.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

All the country papers favoring the gold standard are now using the free photos and other literature furnished by the gold bugs. A stock argument is "that 50 cent dollar." In point of fact, the "dollar of our daddles" is not ner ever would be a 50-cent dollar. But suppose it was, for argument; then what? Where were the gold bugs in "Ta and since then, and what were they doing while the people's dollar was made into a 200-cent dollar." Why did they not protest then if they are so semittively honest? Is confiscation less dishonest than repudiation? The very honorable gold bugs saw debts doubled by demonstration and currency manipulation without a word of protest. "But they are honorable men."

A Cure for "Out of Sorta."

This is what the mother of the Bishop of Huntington did to cure herself of being "out of sorts," when she was 59 years old, as shown by an extract from her diary: "Took physic and consulted the family physician, all to no purpose; suspected the disorder to be nervous; tacked about, put on great resolution and made mince pies, and found myself no worse than before."

Hints of the Modes. The latest in sleeves is a modernized bishop, which is full from the shoulders to the wrist. It has a long line of fibre chamols to retain its graceful contour.

White satin shoulder capes, veiled with white or black accordion chiffon, are much worn at the watering places.

The much-admired box platt now forms part of the back of many of the fashionable skirts. Its graceful effect is due to an interlining of fibre chamols.

Braided white mohair blouses are worn with black or dark skirts.

The Right to the Soil.

The Right to the Soil.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispetch.

While your many correspondents have quoted Herbert Spencer, Pope Gregory the Great, Thomas Jefferson, and others, on the "right to the use of the earth," it may be a refreshing reminder to my older Republican friends and a piece of news to my younger friends of the great party of the people to quote from the platforms of 1832 and 1856.

At the first National Convention of the Republican party, held is Pittsburg in 1853, Henry Wilson of Massachusetts was its chairman. The party was then struggling for power and recognition. The following are two of the planks in their platform:

"Art. 11.—That all men have a natural right to a portion of the soil is indispensable to life, the right of all men to the soil is as sacred as their right to ide."

"Art. 12.—That the public lands of the United States belong to the people, and should not be soil to individuals, nor granted to corporations, but should be granted in illimited quantities, free of cost, to landless settlers."

stronger plank in their platform of that year.

Why has such a change some over the spirit of its dreams, and why do both parfies fight shy of a question that in 1852 and 1858 was so dear to the people, and was so important that it was used 48 a campaign cry of a party seeking recognition? Is it because in 1856 the people do not need the land, and there are no landless men? Or is it because both parties have squandered the public domain and are atraid that an argitation to get it back to the people will bring them in conflict with those who have grown fat with favors?

ILLINOIS LABOR.

Stirring Sentiments in the Call Issued by the State Federation.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Sept. 10.-The thir-SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Sept. in.—The thirteenth annual convention of the Illinois Federation of Labor will be held at Peoria Tuesday, Oct. 8. Main parts of the call read thus:

"This session of the Illinois State Federation of Labor will be one of the most important representative gatherings of labor organizations ever convened in this State, and questions of extraordinary interest to the workingmen of Illinois will be presented for discussion and action. The work of the Thirty-ninth General Assembly presented for discussion and action. The work of the Thirty-ninth General Assembly of this State, recently adjourned, deserves our consideration, so that steps can be taken, by agitation, to successfully pass laws favorable to labor, which failed of passage in that body. Efforts should be made to unite the forces of labor in this State so that the demands of the toiler can find intelligent expression. To this end it is most carnestly desired that every labor organization in the State be represented, and permanently attach itself to this federation, with the object to ultimately establish an organization in which all the labor forces of Illinois will be concentrated for mutual protection and influential effort. Every organization of 100 members or less is entitled to one delegate, and one additional delegate for every additional 100 members. Central bodies are entitled to seats for not more than ten representatives."

A Florida Woman Who Lived Alone

Special to The Fost-Dispatch.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Sept. 10.—The death of Mrs. Anna. Harvell yesterday closed a most remarkable career. For twenty years she had been known as the "female hermit of the west coast," and during all these years she had lived alone save for the companionship of a dog.

She shunned all intercourse with mankind, and until two days octore her death never gave a hint as to her past. Persons who came here twenty years ago found the woman, then about 5 years old, living in deserted fish camps along the coast, her food beling shell fish and other products of the sea.

The villain causing all this domestic ruction is none other than that big, jolly, wholesoled widower, Col. There is no likelihood as yet of flashing steel, but a war of wit is on and to win his bride the doughty Colonel must override reluctant parents, a pair of big, angry brothers and a score of ardent swains from Jonesburg.

ecore of ardent swains from Jonesburg.

The Colonel's troubles and his love began last spring when he went as far as Jonesburg on a fishing trip. There he met Miss Mayme Carr, the reigning belle of the district, a sweet girl of 19 summers, as fascincting in manner as she is beautiful in face and figure. Although the Colonel went to Jonesburg to do a little angling on his own hook, he soon found himself enmeshed in Cupid's net. In former days the Colonel was silver-tongued, but recent political affiliations had chrysostomized him and nothing goes so well with women as the language of the golden-tongued. The young lady was soon more than half way complacent to the Collector's suit.

cent to the Collector's suit.

Then came "the little rift within the lute."
Miss Mayme was the sole comfort of her aged parents—the boys had left the little country home to fight the battle of life in a big city. There was no one to comfort the decilining years of the old folks and with the forgiveable selfishness of old age they were loth to give up the only light left to shine for them as they entered life's shadows.

Then the young woman and her maturer lover began to plot as lovers will of ways to circumvent the opposition to their union. An elopement was considered. Miss Mayme's sister, Mrs. Dr. Bartlett of Clarksville, Mo., had to resort to just such a course a few years ago, and Miss Mayme was her stanchest alley. She was more than anx-tous to return the favor and offered to have

RETIREMENT OF DAVIS & CO.

Various Rumors Afloat as to Future Developments and Prospects.

The announcement that the great dry goods house of Samuel C. Davis & Co. will retire from business has occassioned no end of talk in the wholesale dry goods district. Numerous rumors are afloat. One is that a new wholesale dry goods house is to be formed from the remnants of Janis, Phillips & Co. and Sam'l C. Davis & Co. which will occupy the building so long used by the latter. It seems to be the general opinion among local dry goods men that a new house will be organized between now and Jan. 1

A good many people wonder why Sousa has put selections from Zeller's "Obersteiger" on the programme at least four times since the season opened. The wonder disappears after hearing, for the opera is full of dainty melcdies that never fail to evoke rounds of applause. There is a lot of new music on the programmes and two solos are by the new cornetist, Mr. Henry Higgins, who made a successful debut yesterday, and one by the popular author, Pryor, who will play his favorite "Arie Varie," for trombone. The selections follow:

carr meanwhile came to St. Louis to visit her cousin, Mrs. L. H. Whitbrook, of 1205 North Grand avenue, and the Colonel's suit prospered. Finally it leaked out that parental objection had been withdrawn and that the wedding would take place in the fall. The announcement was premature. The Colonel has yet to deal with two big brothers, and perhaps a rival. All three are out after Romeo's scalp and they won't rest until they get it.

Here is where love's counterplots came in. The Colonel is a shrewd politician and a pretty good schemer, but the brothers have the inside track on him. The counterplot began last Sunday. A Buckner Carr is the manager of a department in Liggett & Myers' big tobacco factory; his brother Robert is a Pullman palace car conductor. They met here Saturday night and took a run down to Jonesburg to see Miss Mayme and the old folks Sunday.

"Buck" Carr admitted the trip was "to look into this Dalton business." Further he had northing to say except that it was all a mistake about his father and mother sanottoning the marriage. Robert was more communicative. He blandly admitted that after reaching Jonesburg they went to see a particular friend of theirs. He would not admit that the young man in question was a particular friend of their sister Mayme and wants to be more so. He told him how the land lay from his side of the fence. Then "Buck" want up to see the old folks, while Robert skirmished the town for gossip.

The Going Man. om the New York Sun.

Farewell, vain world, he's going home
He hears the baby ory.
He's going home, no more to roam,
To croon a lullaby.

"Kerwack, kerwack,"
The baby squalls;
"Come back,"
Responsive Eche calls.

Its little heart is like to break,
Since mother went away
Before the populace to speak
On topics of the day,
The crowds applaud
And call her back,
She doth not hear
"Kerwack, kerwack."

The tears roll down its pallid cheak
Till dawn begins to creep;
It sucks its fists till faint and weak,
It sobs itself to sleep.
"Kerwack, kerwack,"

It cries in vain;
"Come back, come back,"
In accents plain.

When woman's rights are others' wrongs.

Beware the baneful snare;
The home is where the wife belongs.

It needs her loving care.

"Kerwack, kerwack."

"Come back, come back."

To child and home.

"Tis sad, but true the time is past.
When woman's chiefest joy
Was nourished by a husband's love.
And centered in her boy.
"Kerwack, kerwack."

She will not hear
The plaintive strain.

Ah, grievous state; ah, fatal age.

The FALL TERM of the DAY and NIGHT SCHOOL BEGINS SEPTEMBER 1. This is and has been for 20 years the LEADING SCHOOL of its kind in the State of Missouri. It introduced the principal improvements in commercial and shorthand teaching, such as ACTUAL BUSINESS PRACTICE, OFFICE WORK, BANKING, THE REPORTING STYLE of shorthand from the start, etc., and taught these original and practical methods for THIRTY YEARS before others in this city attempted to copy them.

It is the largest, best equipped and most widely known business school in the Mississippi Valley: its discipline stricter and the course of instruction more thorough, while the charges are no greater than those of similar schools in this city.

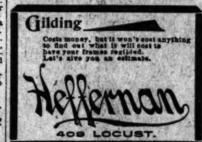

Our rooms are the largest and best lighted, the attendance is more than double that of any other school, and, being practically without competition, our graduates are given preference by business men, who are constantly calling at the College office for bookkeepers, stenggraphers, telegraph operators, etc. For circulars call at the office.

had a good audience and made a strong speech.

After calling upon Ohio Republicans to stand by their principles in triumph, as they had in adversity, Gov. McKiniey presented an historical skatch, showing that Ohio has established her right to be called a Republican State. He spoke particularly of the Senatorial elections. He said:

From 1861 to 1865 the Republicans had two Senators, Wade and Sherman. This year, 1866, we are going to resume our rightful place. Mr. Forakar will take the seat of Mr. Brice. Ohio Republicans are united firmly and resolutely on that proposition. We intend to give Senator Sherman a Republican colleague. While the Damocray has not declared their preference "in the open," it is well understood that Mr. Brice is their candidate. The Republicans have formally, officially, and in hearty good faith, in State Convention assembled, declared their preference for Senator to be Foraker and the choice of the Convention will be ratified in November, and he will be lected to succeed Mr. Brice. The Republicans are to be congratulated that they have no rival candidates for the United States Senatorship. We have no contest is entirely with the Democratic party. Carlisle and Kentucky Politics.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 16.—It is said that Secretary Carlisle has not yet made up his mind to enter the lists in Kentucky. Some of his friends strongly urged him to take the stump again for sound money, and to exercise an influence which will assist in the securing of Mr. Blackburn's defeat. The withdrawal of Gov. Buckner is felt to have materially increased the chances for Senator Blackburn's re-election. Up to the present time Secretary Carlisle has accepted no invitation to speak, and it is understood has not decided as to the course which he will pursue in the matter.

At so time during the hand-to-hand contest just ended did Cameron indicate in any manner to any person in Fensylvania his desire to see Senator Quay succeed. On the contrary, Cameron was not only indifferent, but he ran away from the fight, not caring whether Quay came out on top or was overborne and smashed by the Magee and Martin combina.

ALARMED THE WORSHIPERS. Strange Effect of an Epileptic Attack Upon Aurelius Meade.

Last Sunday morning, during the celebration of 10 o'clock mass at the Church of Our Lady of Good Counsel, at Eleventh and Destrehan streets, the congregation was disturbed by seeing a young man rise in his pew, crowd past the other cocupants therein, start up the center alsie toward Fr. P. J. O'Donohoe, the celebrant. The young man's face was deadly pale, eyes were wildly fixed in a vacant stare and his hands were clinched together with an unatural strength.

Without uttering a word, the startled worshipers saw the strangely acting man walk quickly up the alsie, until he reached worshipers saw the strangely acting man walk quickly up the alsie, until he reached the communion rail. He bent over to open the gate. It was closed with a spring lock. He pushed against it violently. It did not give way. Then, without further ceremony, he sprang over it at a bound, and as he passed the contribution boxes he seized one of them in his hand. The money rattled to the floor, but still he held it. One of the acolytes ran after him and took the box away. The young man did not stop. He passed through the side door, entered the parochial residence and reached the street.

the parochial residence and reached the street.

The acolyte spoke to Fr. Donohoe, but the priest only shook his head and went on with the service.

Once on the street the strang young man seemed to come to his senses. He looked about him in an amased way, up at the plers and the houses across the street. Then at the yellow brick walls of the church. He did not understand. He felt cold and shivered. Two boys spoke to him, but he only shook his head, and passed on down Destrehan street.

When he reached the doors of the church he re-entered. A man saw that he was ill and gave him a chair. He sat down and was quiet until mass was over. Then his father came and took him home.

The boy was Aurelius Meade. He is 18 years old and lives with his father, John Meade at 378 North Eleventh street. He is a victim of epilepsy.

A murder case of importance is that in which Erasmus Frederick is defendant, set for October I, next. Frederick shot his employer, John H. Lewis, manager of the Benton Manufacturing Company, because he deducted from Frederick's wages for alleged faulty workmanship. The murder was defiberate, cod-blooded. Seyeral societies have interested themselves in Frederick's behalf and the dase promises interest because of the probability of a unique defense in which Socialistic theories may have a

The docket as already set includes also the cases of fraud at elections, brought back to St. Louis under the new change of venue law, with considerable probability of the conviction of the defendants. They include charges of fraud by Judge of Election against Joseph E. March, Edw. J. Murphy, Geo. P. Fisherty, Wm. H. Shaw, James Coughlin and John L. Powers; fraudulent voting, against Edw. Miller, John Giblan and Joseph Holden; bribery, against John Ellison; perjury, against Wm. Cahill.

Circuit Court by Attorney Dan G. Taylor, in behalf of F. A. Piper & Co., of Uvalde, Tex., against the brokerage firm of B. F. Small & Co., many locally prominent business concerns are more or less interested ness concerns are more or less interested. The suit is on two bills of exchange, one for $2,000 and the other for $400, drawn by B. F. Buzard on B. F. Small & Cd. F. A. Piper & Co. paid the drafts, but up to date they have not been honored. Both were drawn last May.

Nearly a year has passed since Capt. Buzard came to St. Louis to secure capital to put in operation a gigantic plan to irrigate the staked plains of Western Texas. To this end he attempted to dispose of the bonds of the Uvaide Irrigation Company, a corporation organized for that purpose, with offices at Uvaide. B. F. Small & Co. became the St. Louis agents in placing the bonds, and for a time matters seemed to progress favorably for the concern Capt. Buzard became a familias figure about the Mercantile and Noonday Clubs, where be honobobed with the solid business men of the city. He is an elderly gentleman of fine apparance and cook address and be created.

Mercantile and Noonday Clubs, where be hobnobed with the solid business men of the city. He is an elderly gentleman of fine apparance and good address, and he created a favorable impression everywhere. But the bonds wouldn't float. Capt. Buzard spent money like water about the clubs, but he falled to secure investors. These expenses were paid by furfits on B. F. Small & Co., signed by B. F. Buzard, as president of the Uvaide Irrigation Company. Until the two drafts named in the present suit they were honored by the local agents When these drafts rached St. Louis Piper & Co., who had accepted most of the money was not on hand to pay them, but they would be paid later. This was not done, hence the filing of the suit.

Several months ago the St. Louis Trust Company sent Henry C. Scott and Engineer Robert Moore to Uvaide to investigate the scheme. They made a report most favorable to it. But the company did not purchase the bonds and many who were following its lead also let the matter drop. B. F. Small & Co. will not discuss the presnt status of the irrigation scheme, except to say that the temporary embarrassment will be tided over. Capt. Buzard is thought to be in Chicago, trying to float the bonds there.

law swooped down upon him and suppressed his Fourth of July oration he can hardly be charged with participating in a private row at a London hotel over a discussion of St. Louis politics. Then, too, the ex-Mayor never was "part proprietor" of a newspaper here as far as the public knows, so that part of the deschription does not fit him.

Marshall McDonald, who, on occasion, is as bellicose as the best of them, landed in New York Saturday from Europe, and it is suggested by many that it was he who smashed his umbrella over the head of a wealthy citizen. But Mr. McDonald was never known to fight in this country outer innancially interested in any St. Louis news, a paper the fact is not of record. So neither does the cable description fit him.

John Gilbert, the ex-Commissioner of Supples, was in Europe when last heard from, getting his fine basso profundo again in shape for use on the lyrio stage. He was once the managing editor of a St. Louis newspaper. Perhaps, then, it was he who smashed his ambrella over the head of a wealthy citizen. But who is the unlucky wealthy citizen?

Judge Noonan showed up at his office at noon Monday. "I very strongly suspect that it was my friend John Gilbert who used his umbrella in that London hotel," said the ex-Mayor. "I left John in London, and I know he is such a good friend of mins that he would smash anybody with an umbrella mighty quick if they attempted to abuse and traduce me. Who the party was that got smashed I have no idea."

OUT OF A HIGH WINDOW.

While opening the shutters of a third-story window at her home, 3501 Lemp ave-nue, Mrs. Henrietta Roberts lost her bal-ance and fell thirty-five feet to the hard scene by neighbors, who ran to her assistance.

The shutters became fastened in some manner, and in forcing them open Mrs. Roberts was thrown from her feet. She fell head downward for probably fitteen feet and then doubled up and turned a complete somersault in the air, alighting on her feet.

Her knees gave way and she sank to the ground, injuring her spine. One ankle was badly sprained. Dr. Greer, who was called in, is apprehensive that Mrs. Roberts may have some trouble with her spine, but is hopeful that her injuries are not serious. Anthony C. Roberts, husband of the viotim, is a clerk employed by the Meyer Bros. Drug Co.

FORESTS AFLAME.

Great Destruction Following the Fire The Movement for the Confederation of in Michigan Woods.

HARBOR SPRINGS, Mich., Sept. 10.—The Beaver Island forest fire is still raging and making considerable headway. People on the morning boat say farmers are leaving their fields and flocking to St. James and the coast. The fire is raging on the highlands. It is thought to have been started by a fishing party camping at an inland lake. Between the fire and St. James is a big swamp, which, it is hoped, will check the flames.

Many thousands of dollars' worth of valuable timber has already been destroyed. Clouds of smoke hang over the lake, cinders fall on the mainland and the blaze could be seen at Cross Village, thirty miles away, last night.

If the fire crosses the swamp it may burn the town of St. James. HARBOR SPRINGS, Mich., Sept. 10.-The pecial to The Post-Dispatch. NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—A handsome young woman who seemed in great distress, wringing her hands as she walked, suddenly threw herself into the East river at 7 o'clock last night at the foot of Ninety-seventh street. Policeman Whalen, who had noticed her actions and was trying to overtake her, rescued the girl, who was taken to the station first. She gave, an assumed name, saying she would not give her true one.

her true one.

"Why did you try to commit suicide?"

"I have been a bad girl for a year," sobbed the dripping prisoner, "and I was tired of it.
"I won't disgrace my people. It's no use to tell them, anyhow, for I will kill myself the first chance I get."

She was sent to the hospital. On the way she tried to open a artery in her wrist by jabbing her hat pin into it. She fought the doctors with all her strength, but they strapped her arms tight. Arriving at the hospital, the doctor turned from her an instant.

"Lend me your knife," she said to the hospital attendant, and she offered some excuse for asking for it.

The man took his pen knife from his pocket and gave it to her. The doctor turned again and saw it in her hand, the blade open. He took it away from her, she fighting to stab herself. The desperate girl is being closely watched at the hospital. Her only danger is from her own hands.

Central American States.

NEW YORK, Sept. 10 .- Further particulars of the movement for a Central American Union have been obtained from Senon can Union have been obtained from Senor Jose de Gomes, the Nicaraguan statesman, who, as the special minister from the President of Nicaragua to the Central American States, conducted the other preliminary negotiations which led to the understanding now arrived at. Senor Gomes arrived in New York several days ago, and has been stopping with friends here. From here he will go to Washington in a day or two topay his respects to the Nicaraguan Minister. He says that he is in the United States solely on private business. In an interview he said:

"The confederated arrangement by which Nicaragua, Salvador and Honduras have just committed themselves and which, it is hoped, Guatemals and Costa Rica will also assent to," said Senor Gomes, "is primarily in the interest of maintaining peace" amentable in various material research. But what hastened the agreement for ion and was probably the determining factin bringing it to pass at this time was a robitrary action of England in the Conto affair several months ago. That was striking object lesson of the weakness of a Central American States when concorted by foreign aggressions and the hion for defense which we are now inautrating is the direct outgrowth of it. Lastear I was sent by the President of Nicaagus, Gen. Don J. Santos Zelaya, as a poetial minister to the Central American epublics to present to their governments he propositions in behalf of a treaty of mion. I received fair encouragement, but before my mission was completed the events growing out of England's claim of Nicaragus transpired, and I was summone home. President Zelaya thereupon decide that the time was ripe for immediate action and without waiting for the results of magottations to develop in the ordinar course, he issued an invitation to all the Central American residents to meet at Amapa, the capital of Honduras.
